

PARENTS: Take Action Now

or state funding cuts will rob your child of a high-quality education.

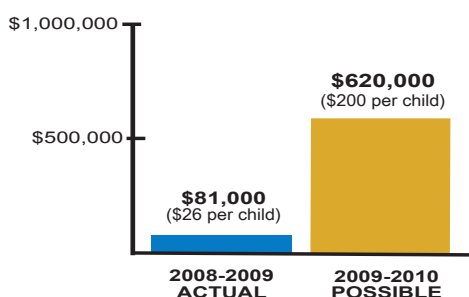

The primary funding source for our academically acclaimed public schools is the financially bankrupt state of California. It is slashing $3 million from Coronado Unified School District (CUSD) through 2011. With inflation, public funding is now back at 1995 levels with 2010 expenses. Our schools need your help.

CUSD relies on our nonprofit fundraising arm, Coronado Schools Foundation (CSF), to provide our 3,100 public-school children with an education that rivals the county's finest private-school programs. A similar education would cost at least $20,000 per year at a private San Diego County school. To support CUSD academic programs, CSF asks each student's family to donate $200 per year for each child. Last year, these donations totaled $81,000, an average of $26 per student.

This year, if each family gives an average of $200 per student, CUSD would have $620,000 to help offset the loss of $3 million. With your $200 donation per child— just over $1 per school day—you will become a Partner in Education and help us preserve our exceptional public schools. Every donation is important.

Please give generously as you register for the new school year. Your contribution is payable over 6 months and tax deductible to the full extent of the law. CSF is a 501(c) 3 nonprofit organization.

PARTNERS IN EDUCATION FUNDING
BASED ON AVERAGE PARTICIPATION

"Without the support of your contributions through CSF, we will be forced to cut our academic programs and compromise our high levels of achievement."

— Jeffrey P. Felix, Ed.D., CUSD Superintendent

"CSF funding enhances our instructional program. There is a direct correlation between CSF and student success at Coronado High School."

— Karl Mueller, Principal, Coronado High School

"CFS funding helped us raise our API score to 870, a 17-point increase over the previous year."

— Bill Cass, Principal, Silver Strand Elementary
